About Our Clan

The MacAlisters are a branch of the Clan Donald. Our ancestor was Alisdair, descendent of the famous Somerled of the Isles. The MacAlisters were in Kintyre in the 14th century and later were numerous in Bute and Arran. In 1481 Charles MacAlister was Seward of Kintyre. His son John was called "John of the Loup," and his descendents form one of the principal families. Another branch, that of Tarbet, appears first in the 16th century, and became Constables of Tarbet Castle.
